

Many of the moments Ashley students share are just simple, everyday ones. This time spent together goofing off helping each other study or others things mean as much or more to us than special occasions which draw attention. While these special occasions and recognition of outstanding people are important, the most remembered memories are the most common, everyday occurrences.

