

A Special Song For A Special Year

At Ashley there are many different faces, ideas, and outlooks on life. We don't always comply with the traditional image of a high school. We are unique because we readily show our feelings, which has helped us to develop a closeness with friends, faculty, and community rarely felt by other schools. In other words, "We Sing Our Own Song."

We sing of joy . . .
of happy times . . .
of shining faces and resounding laughter.

We sing of despair . . .
of tearful gazes . . .
dreary days . . .
of longing looks and blank pages.

We sing proudly . . .
of the year we've shared . . .
of hard fought victories . . .
and academic battles not easily won.

The personalities at Ashley blend together to produce the perfect harmony in which each note has its place. Without that note, the song would not be the same.

Ashley is a place where we can unify as one. A place where we can laugh, cry, share our hopes, dreams, and fears, while still having the space to grow into the special person that lies within each of us.

1. "59" . . . Who is she kidding?
2. Don't mess with these boys!
3. Rob, wouldn't it help if you put some paper in there?
4. If you're not quiet, he's coming after you.
5. A rush for the lockers and back to class.
