The J. V. volleyball team had a good year. Though their record was 4-7 and 32 in the league, they played as a team and had fun doing it.

No one knows for sure how much Cara Burk's good luck lifesavers had to do with the success of the team, but Coach Anita Lowe knows she had better luck getting the lifesavers than the fruit the Sports Boosters sent in at halftime.

Some of the girls received special recognition for their efforts. Val Strouse was named this year's MVP. She scored a total of 48 points for the season. Amy Lytle singlehandedly scored 11 points in a row one game. Kim Morris went 82% on serves, and Jamie Plesko connected with 150 bumps and 10 aces for the season.

These three girls received towels from Coach Lowe that said "Ashley" on them.

The varsity volleyball team had a promising season. They went 5-14 for overall and 3-3 in league play.

From the beginning of the season to the end, the team showed a marked improvement in their abilities on the floor. They won their last three games, and just played like a team, not as individuals. This should be helpful next year since the team will only lose two members: Wanda Collins and Sandy Jelinek.

At the end of the season Coach Kathy Densmore had a pizza party at her house for the team. The party moved to Hornak's when they went to take Mr. Hornak a pizza. As luck would have it he wasn't home, and the team ended up at Mrs. Luneack's.
