

Closing

And now we come to the final stanza of our song. Though the harmony wasn't always in tune, through a lot of caring, sharing, and working together we managed to complete the composition of a great year.

In the fall the music begins with the many voices of friends being reunited after a summer separation. We move on to Homecoming and see faces old and new appear for the big game and to see who makes Homecoming Queen. We feel the support of the community as well as the school kick in for the festivities.

In the winter months the basketball games do their best to keep the tempo going until spring. Spring brings the anticipation of senior trip, and the promise of spring break. Later on there are mixed feelings of joy and melancholia the seniors and underclassmen feel about graduation. But we handle everything dealt our way beautifully and once again complete the rhythmic cycle of the school year.
