All Out Play By Jr High

Anybody who didn't get to see an seventh and eighth grade boys' 11 games this year definitely missed out, because these two junior high school teams always played their hearts out. The eighth grade boys ended up with five wins and seven losses by the end of the season. Coach Bill Cartwright has no choice but to be pleased by the performance of all his players. Scott Polash had a wonderful season with one-hundred and one rebounds. Also, Jeremy Cartwright sank an amazing three point basket against Breckenridge.

Ashley's seventh graders also had a good season this year. Jim Drummond led his team with ninety-three points and twenty-two assists. Cory Gavenda and Brian Howe also contributed to this year's team.
