AHS Couples Spend Prom Night "Dancing On Air"

The night everyone was looking forward to was finally here — Prom Night '87! Buying a dress, renting a tux, ordering flowers, going out for dinner and picture taking are all a part of the typical prom rituals.

This year the class of '88 tried something different; they held the Prom at the Ashley Sportsman Club on May 16, 1987, from eight o'clock until midnight. The theme "Dancing on Air," was set off with a variety of colorful balloons hanging from the ceiling and two hot air balloons floated gaily through out the room. Adding to the theme, Hicks Studio took pictures of each couple against a backdrop consisting of helium balloons in pastel colors. When the DJ's, better known as Pickadilly, played the seniors' theme song, "Never Say Goodbye," by Bon Jovi, romance filled the air.

To make the Prom evening extra special, many couples dined at the Brass Bell or Heritage House before the Prom. The 1987 Prom . . . truly a night to remember.

Friendship among AHS students certainly plays a large role in making the Prom a special night. Sophomores Amy Fabus, Shannon Carpenter, and Kim Morris take a break from dancing to enjoy a hug and a laugh.
