

NHS Involvement

The National Honor Society took a step forward and became more involved in service projects this year. After John Smith's automobile accident, the NHS seniors helped tutor John in government, consumer economics, and novels.

The NHS also became involved in the student support groups which were initiated by the Student Assistance Program. It was an opportunity to get to know some younger students, and talk about or listen to problems.

The NHS also organized and presented the Scholastic Banquet once again. Students were honored for scholastic achievement and new members were initiated into the NHS. New inductees included: seniors; Ulrika Pehrson, Jamie Plesko, Jim Skaryd, Otis Viles; junior: Shelia Keck; sophomores: Amy Burk and Brian Gavenda.

A SPECIAL MOMENT for NHS inductee, Brian Gavenda, and his parents, Mary and Joe Gavenda, is when his mother pins him and he officially becomes a member of the National Honor Society.

1987-88 NHS members: Front row: Cathy Strnad, Kim Morris, Chaunda Shaw, Karin Burlingame Back row: Christa Shaw, Tammy Sopocy, Amy Lytle, Mrs. Suzanne Luneack (Advisor)

SIGNING HER NAME in the NHS membership book, Jamie Plesko then moves forward to receive her membership card and certificate and congratulations from Mr. Wayer and Mr. Seals.
