

Flying Freshman

Wes Denniston, a very unique freshman, plans to become a pilot before he's out of high school.

Wes became interested in flying just by watching planes and figured it would be exciting. He plans to start taking flying lessons within the next year at Alma airport.

Wes would like to become a licensed pilot by his sixteenth birthday, when he plans to make his first solo flight.

His parents are also proud of him and his ambitions to one day become a pilot, even if he doesn't make a career of flying.

Wes has definite plans to enter the army after graduating from high school, although he doesn't plan to become a jet pilot. He would like to get into helicopter pilot training.

Wes remembered his most frightening moment and his most enjoyable times while flying. Once when he was flying with a Navy pilot, the pilot put the plane into a nose dive, and Wes wasn't sure he could pull up in time. He most enjoys taking control of the aircraft while flying with a pilot friend of his.

In the future, Wes believes he'll only make a hobby out of flying, but he plans to have a good time doing it.
