

Class Visits Murder City

And Has A Killer Trip!

They thought it would be awful. Who would go to Washington D.C. for their senior trip? There's no beach, it rains a lot, and the only thing to do is see museums. Right? Well, when thirty members of the class of '90 get out of school for a week, they'll find a way to make anything interesting. They visited all the museums and monuments. They saw Ford Theater where Lincoln was shot and Peterson House, where he died. One of the favorite stops was the Hard Rock Cafe, the coolest place in Washington. After a hard day of sight-seeing, the seniors went back to their hotel for a long night of hall-roaming, practical jokes, and party raids. There was some disappointment when they found out that they weren't going to Busch Gardens, but, most importantly, they enjoyed their last chance to be together and just be the class of 1990.

ANOTHER SLEEPNESS NIGHT has started for Char Evans and Melanie Denniston. Instead of joining the craziness below, they are content to sit on the ledge outside their window and laugh at their classmates.

DANCE MANIA has struck Carl Strnad and Cyndi Surdock. Square dancing on a motel bed might not sound like fun, but at least they're not bored.

HE'S A COOL DUDE! Chad Felton helps relieve some boredom one night by climbing into the ice machine. Several other seniors then went to tell Mr. Anderson that there was a problem with the machine. He returned with them and opened the lid to find Chad stirring the ice.
