

There is always that time in the year when you feel as though you just can't take any more. This time is known as the "Winter Blahs." Everyone gets them, every school gets them; but Ashley High's Student Council did something about it.

The student council planned a four day week — February 5-8 — when the students and staff could let off some steam. There was a lot of participation, and the four days gave everyone an excuse to act crazy and just have a little fun.

Dress up days were scheduled, like Twin Day and Inside Out Day, for each of the four days. Thursday was the biggest day of all for fun. Lunch hour was extended and the student body was challenged with relay races and a pie eating contest. The races and the contest were messy, yet fun.

At 2:00 students and staff were dismissed for the annual Puttin' On the Hits. It was a huge success, as always, with several groups such as the Sex Pistols, a group of "Bad Boys", and a few people with oldies but goodies who got up to strut their stuff. The crowd response was overwhelming and our "Winter Blahs" were melted away.

JUMP FOR A VICTORY ... that's what can be said about Jenny Felton and Ronda Cook as they furiously jump for the freshman team.
