

SHOWING THEY HAD THE RIGHT STUFF and producing a creative prom were two things on Mrs. Gearhart's mind. Shown here with Carl Strnad, Perry Thompson, Wes Denniston and Scott Brzak, she really shows her stuff.

Everyone knows that the class of '91 isn't the most gung-ho class at Ashley High School. But when prom time came around, it was time for them to start their fire and get busy.

If you happened walk by the old gym a few days before prom, you might have been puzzled. Progress was kind of slow. But Mrs. Marilyn Gearhart, class sponsor, explained it this way: "The lack of help was at first, kind of disappointing. But we got a lot of help from other classes, and after all of the chaos and hair pulling, it turned out the way I wanted it to." And what were the results, you may ask? A silver ballroom, dimly lit with blue lamps, silver and blue hearts suspended in air and hanging from blue trees, and silhouettes of lovers on the walls. Blue balloons floated in the air, and soft music, provided by Music by Mindy from Rusch productions, played in the background. A romantic setting for a well-planned evening.

---

"After all of the chaos and hair pulling, it turned out the way I wanted it to."

---

The junior class issued key chains with "Love Song" inscribed on them, as tickets; a different and fresh idea. Yes, May 12 was a little dreary; it rained all day, and it never stopped. But emotions were high and nothing was going to ruin the night that had been anticipated for so long.

Mrs. Gearhart estimated well over thirty couples attended the prom, making it a great success. So, yes, the class of '91 pulled off a terrific prom. But, then, did anyone ever doubt that they wouldn't?

RELAXING AFTER A GREAT BRASS BELL DINNER sounds good to John Strouse, Traci Hardman, Heath Northrup and Amy Felton.