

What Is Your Craziest High School Memory?

"It was a senior prank. I vaselined door knobs and put parking blocks in front of the school doors."

Mr. Shawn Feeley
Mathematics

"I set the clock that controls the bells 20 minutes ahead and everyone left for lunch 20 minutes early. I got caught, and had to stay in for five lunch periods."

Mr. Sherm Hendricks
Mathematics

"During one of my drama club plays another cast member forgot his lines and almost passed out. I had to ad lib almost three pages of lines to figure out how to get him back into the play. I thought everything was lost!"

Mrs. Tammi Kral
Resource Room

"I went to see the principal for being absent. I told him that I had a headache, and gave him a note from my mom. The note said that I had a stomach ache. The principal said, 'You and you mom should get together.'"

Mr. Fred Sanford
Counselor

"I skipped school with my friends, but I had to be back for one class. We had a flat tire, but no jack. One friend, a big guy, held the car up while we changed the tire. We made it back to school."

Mr. Gary Schestag
Industrial Arts

RED, BLUE, OR GREEN? These are just a few of the colors Mr. Sherm Hendricks uses on his overhead projector to teach his geometry class. Jim Drummond, geometry student, said, "The colors bring out the way he feels about his students. He has no favorites!"

"I got kicked out of school for putting a tack on my teacher's chair. I had to write a 3,000 word essay to get back in school."

Mrs. Suzanne Luneack
English, journalism

BEEP, BEEP! Working on his computer is Mr. Gary Schestag. Mr. Schestag uses his computer, which was purchased through grants applied for by the teachers, to help out in some of his shop classes.

(Left) LENDING A HAND. Mr. Fred Sanford, is always willing to lend a helping hand. He assists students in filling out financial aid forms and preparing for the ACT test.
