

A Perfect Vision

WHO SAYS PROM IS A TIME TO BE ROMANTIC? Not these two! Heidi Harlow and Dave Keller enjoy a night of laughter, just as friends.

The class of '92 wanted to do something different for prom. Something that no class has done within the past decade. They wanted their prom to be a "Vision of Love" in more ways than one.

What was so different about this year's prom? The juniors had a dinner prom and it was held at Shifters in Alma.

Doors opened at 6:30, the dinner started at 7:00 and dancing was from 8:30-12:00. Music was provided by Chris Helms.

The juniors didn't have very long to decorate, due to a party in the same room the night before, but the results were great. A silver ballroom with red, white, and black balloons along the walls made for a very romantic night. The dance floor had a disco ball flashing colors. Also, the juniors found a bubble machine and the air was magically filled with bubbles.

The junior class provided picture frames with "Vision of Love" inscribed on them.

Granted, May 27 was not the best day, weatherwise. It did rain off and on, but this was supposed to be the best night of the year and nothing would spoil it.

"The decorations were nice and it was a nice change to have it someplace else," stated Shawn Sopocy.

So in the end, it did prove to be a "Vision of Love."

SPAIN HAS NO PROMS, so Ashley's was a little different for exchange student Antonio del Cerro Gaston. "It was funny when we walked into Shifters; everybody stopped and stared," stated Tony. Tony and Mr. Larsen, junior class advisor, share a special friendship.

PROM IS A TIME FOR PICTURES AND POSES. Robin Woody and Andrea Simon steal a moment away from their dates to strike a pose.
