

"ALL IN A DAY'S WORK!" Michelle Wolfe, Heidi Harlow and Danielle Burk express their artistic abilities while making posters for yearbook sales. This year's theme for the posters was Hans and Franz.

"TON O'LARD!" Jim Drummond gets a lift from pals Kelli Felton and Heidi Harlow. The threesome have been friends since kindergarten and can often be seen around school joking with each other.

On The Rise

Ashley Pride

Well, here it is, the end of the school year. So many things have happened this year, many good and positive, as in sports — the football team made us all proud when they made it to the semi-finals and the softball team went farther in districts than any other softball team before them.

Academically, Ashley did well too. Our quiz bowl team did well this year and a lot more students came to cheer them on.

People sometimes complain about being such a small school and say we're losing our pride. Just looking back on the year proves them all wrong. Ashley pride is still alive and continues to grow stronger with each passing year.

So now we say goodbye to 1991 with all its memories and accomplishments and excitedly look forward to 1992 with high hopes and pride.

"HE'S THE BIRTHDAY BOY!" Mr. Paul Hornak celebrates his fortieth birthday with a homemade typewriter cake, thanks to his wife and three daughters. Mr. Hornak commented that turning forty is just another stepping stone in his career.
