

Girls Chow Down

Heaps Of Chocolate Pie

Contestants lined up at a table. In front of each of them was a gooey chocolate pie, topped with mounds of whipped cream. Napkins were tied around their necks, and by the looks on their faces they were ready to begin. The referee gave them the signal and the three girls dove in.

This year the student council added the girls' pie eating contest to the noon time relays. Jason Pendleton thought it was different to have girls in the pie eating contest.

Other activities consisted of Opposite Sex Day, Pajama Day, and Puttin' on the Hits.

Another event was added to the activities of Twirp Week; this was the Penny Pinching Contest. Each class had a bucket to put pennies in, which gave their class points. But to make it a little more competitive, other classes could put silver or dollars in the different pails to subtract points. The class that came in first place with 3964 points was the sophomores; seventh grade took second, and the ninth grade third. Each received a cash prize.

It was the last chance to beat Drummond, and I wanted it to be me.

LET'S DANCE! Cross dressing at Ashley seems to be a favorite thing during Twirp Week. Kasey Viles, Kristen Fabus, and Joie Fabus participate in Puttin' on the Hits. Their group, the Brooklyn Babes, came in second place and received a cash prize of $35.
