

Breaking Tradition

Prom Takes On New Look In '92

Tradition may not have been the key idea behind the prom this year, even though it was held at Traditions in St. Johns, and this year's prom was anything but traditional.

Having pictures taken in a studio was the first hint that prom was going to be different. Most couples stepped into Photo Imaging, next to Traditions, to have pictures taken before they even entered prom.

The price of prom tickets included the cost of dinner. This helped couples save the cost of going out to eat in expensive restaurants. Dinner was served buffet style with a choice of swiss steak or turkey.

Prom colors were even out of the ordinary. Pastel colors are usually a hit with most proms but not Ashley's. Purple and teal was the theme for decorations with bits of silver added to give a little sparkle. Purple balloons were shaped in hearts to give a romantic effect.

This year's untraditional prom was the perfect place for two young ladies to show up dressed in formal tuxes: Robin Woody and Lena Barnes. "I wanted to make a statement," commented Robin.

Slow dances are usually the favorite but this year the dancers got into something a little different. The novelty dances were the icing on the cake. Couples enjoyed such dances as the hokey-pokey and the Chicken dance.

This year prom-goers took seriously the theme "Don't Let the Sun Go Down."

P. Shaw

IT MUST BE LOVE! Tim Minarik and Dawn Strouse share a hug while the chaperone's back is turned. "It was fun going to the prom and seeing what our class could accomplish when we work together," stated Dawn.

”

Prom was an original experience where I had a lot of fun with all of my friends.

Florencia Anatelli

“

SHOUT! Shelby Osborn, Ronda Cook, Shelly Andersen, Jenny Felton, and Florencia Anatelli almost fall on the floor as they get crazy to the song, Shout.

R. Woody