

To some, school is a necessary evil, to others it's the key to survival in today's society. Good role models are important to base your life upon — Luckily, here at Ashley we have four good candidates.

Mr. Paul Hornak, Mr. Larry Walden, Mr. Max Feldpausch, and Mr. Shawn Feeley are four exceptional teachers and close colleagues who set good examples for all students.

♦ "IT'S MULTIPLICATION, MY DEAR WATSON!" Mr. Feldpausch tries to explain the logic of math. Mr. Feldpausch is well known for the nicknames he gives his students.

Counseling, advanced math and business were the upstairs specialties this year and have been for the past two years.

Although not everyone can appreciate the fine

B. Franks

EXCUSE ME! There is no disturbing these two busy students. JoAnna Thompson and Shelly Hardman are so involved in their accounting it seems they're actually enjoying it!

B. Franks

R. Woody

REAL MEN

art of teaching, many agree that these admirable teachers do add a certain something special to the average school day.

School's not so bad now, is it?

NO PROBLEM! Dana Deming always finds time to enjoy the company of counselor, Mr. Larry Walden. Dana's end-of-the-day trademark is a resounding "Goodbye, Mr. Walden!" echoing through the halls.

♦ $X+Y=2$. This is what you might hear in advanced math. C.J. Lowe, Cory Gavenda, Matt Miller, and Brett Paksi listen as Mr. Feeley explains the theories of mathematics. Mr. Feeley also taught German I.