

TIME TO LEARN

SOMETHING NEW

K. Lytle

"I NEED MORE HAIRSPRAY!" Amy Felton demonstrates how she gets such "big hair" in the morning. Traci Hardman is her unsuspecting victim in this speech project.

THEY KEEP GOING AND GOING . . . Jon Pendleton, Chris Sosebee, and Kelli Felton smile even though the Energizer Bunny just interrupted their skit. No one knows when the bunny (Jenny Felton) will strike.

Did you ever take a class just because it's a well-known fact that numerous projects are usually included in the curriculum? These activities make some classes more popular than others. For example, even though German was offered for the first time this year, many people rushed to sign up. One of the German students, Cory Gavenda, said, "I signed up because it was something new at Ashley." He was unaware that the class was going to perform skits in Mt. Pleasant, but reflected, "It was fun after we were done with our skit!"

The mock wedding in family living took place in January. Jenny Felton and Adam Palmatier were married in the ceremony. Chad Good was the best man and Andrea Simon served as maid of honor. The bride's attendants were Robin Woody, Sara Felton, and Shannan Felton. Groomsmen were Monchea Robinson, Ryan Kirkpatrick, and J.C. Stoll.

In Mrs. Luneack's speech class, it is required that the students give a demonstrative speech. These speeches included self-defense, foot massage, fortune telling, changing a tire, and origami. Amy Felton demonstrated her unique ability to raise her hair to new heights. Amy commented, with an evil chuckle, "It was fun making Traci look just like me. Now we're clones!"

K. Lytle