Small In Size, But Big In Spirit!

The Size Didn't Stop Them From Their Job

Cheerleading at Ashley isn't on the top of the popularity list.

To bring life to a crowd takes dedication, work, and leadership, and that is exactly what these girls had. "It's not as easy as people believe; it takes a lot of effort to boost the fans' spirits when the team is down and out!" commented football cheerleader, Andrea Simon.

This year's squads had a lot of obstacles to overcome. The cheerleaders ended basketball season with a varsity squad consisting of five cheerleaders, three of which were rookies. The football cheerleaders came into the season with only four girls on the squad and no coach! "The size of the squad just made us work harder. We had to arrange our routines to work for only four girls!" was the way Brenda Saylor, both football and basketball cheerleader, summed it up!

The dance was the greatest, and always being together made the season worthwhile!
