

OUR

It Has

been said that school
mirrors society. If so, then the variety of
students here

at Ashley shows that our society is alive and well. Ashley students are in their prime when the spotlight is focused on their individual abilities, which sometimes border on the insane. When you think back on your high school years, the people who will stand out the most are those who acted like themselves. Their antics amuse, and sometimes annoy, everyone around them, but they make school tolerable. So don't be afraid to be yourself at Ashley. Remember that our years here are our time to live it up.

By Teri Mills

ANYBODY WANT A BITE? Traci Hardman can't wait to show everyone on the seniors' trip to Toronto how good her sandwich looks chewed up. Scott McGillis appears to enjoy the show.