

The Dance We Shared

the memories we made together

"It was a night to let your hair down and be yourself. A night to make memories you'd never forget." This is the way Sharon Keck, senior, described prom night, 1993.

Prom, a room full of couples looking into each others eyes, holding hands, and sneaking a quick kiss in the dark. Girls floated into the room, in dresses reflecting every style, from a Southern belle to a New York sophisticate. Many were escorted by handsome young men in formal tuxes, most sporting long tails and boutonnières that matched the dress of their date. What ever the outfit, however, the atmosphere

"It was one of the last nights I knew I could spend with my friends."
Sharon Keck

was a perfect match. The decorations for the evening were tall white pillars, strands of balloon pearls draped gracefully from column to column and the whole scene was accentuated with large, red metallic roses.

Romance, however, was not the only thing that made it a special night. Friends shared laughs, hugs, and even a simple smile as they passed by. Sharon Keck recalled that as the night died down and couples began to leave, she had one thought: "It was one of the last nights I knew I could spend with my friends before graduation."

Stephanie Thiel

What was the most exciting thing that happened Prom night?

"Seeing the outcome of the prom was great because everyone liked it and I was able to have a part in decorating. Prom was also very special because I will be able to hold on to the memories for a lifetime."

Jenny Powelson

CENTER OF ATTENTION. Jon Pendleton knows how to attract a crowd with his smooth moves. The crowd circled up while Jon performed.

S. Luneack

S. Luneack