

R. Camp

Academics

A PERFECT POSE. Groom Jonathon Pendleton and bride Angie Camp pose for a quick shot during the mock wedding in Family Living class.

Everyone Gets Involved

Everyone knows that giving a daughter away isn't easy. But even when it's make-believe, the "real" emotions come out. According to bride Angie Camp's dad, Mr. Rick Camp, "It was a lot more real than I thought it would be. I am glad it was just practice."

"The involvement of the community in the wedding is great," said Mrs. Connie Bongard. The flowers come from local florists, a local minister performs the mock ceremony, and an area bridal shop loans a wedding gown. Having a father walk his daughter down the aisle for the first time during the mock wedding was memorable. "It's a great learning opportunity and, hopefully, we can continue it," commented Mrs. Bongard.

D. Lowe
VERY IMPRESSED. Mrs. Bongard looks through a wedding book made during her Family Living mock wedding unit.