

IN A HEARTBEAT! Lena Krull practices using a stethoscope while at vocational education in Alma. She's gaining experience in the medical field.

Up And At 'Em

It's a race! You get up and get ready for school, hurrying so that you don't miss the bus or get to school late, but think about the voc ed students.

Marna Polash goes to vocational education in Mt. Pleasant for childcare. She says the hardest part of going to voc ed is having to get up so early. Marna commented, "It's hard to get up in the morning when you stay up too late."

Marna said she decided to go to voc ed so that she could learn new things, meet new people, and get out of going through the "normal" school day. Is it worth it?

Vocational education offers many things. It's a challenge at times, but has many rewards.
