

scribble KICK BACK? TAKE IT EASY? NO WAY! scribble

F OR THESE STUDENTS, THE DAY IS LONG W ORK LASTS FROM SUNUP TO SUNDOWN

scribble

scribble M any students run home after 3:05 to relax and enjoy life but not Ron Schwab . . . he awakes early in the morning only to hear the roaring sound of a tractor and when 3:05 rolls around, it's out to the field until the sun goes down. Ron commented, "I don't mind the farming as long as the heat's not too bad."

Many people may think that farming is an easy job but, according to Dave Brown, it takes many hours of hard and careful planning.

Another activity that some students find themselves spending a lot of time doing is training horses for 4H, which doesn't just happen in one day, but takes many weeks of going through drills, preparing the horses to compete. Shelby Osborn commented, "I like training the horses and then putting them to their all in shows. It's just plain fun to compete."

Though it may seem everyone goes home and relaxes, think again . . . for some people, there's more work to be done.

Stephanie Murdock

J. Thompson

GIDDY UP, HORSIE. Sarah Wayer enjoys the company of her horse after a long day of school. Sarah has been involved in equestrianism for several years.

YEE HAH! Shelby Osborn races across the arena with her horse. Shelby and her sister, Cody, compete in many 4H shows together.

