

SECOND BEST TO ONLY THE CHEERLEADERS

The Student Council Keeps
Up School Spirit
With Activities

6:30 a.m. The alarm rings, another day of school is about to begin. Going to the same place 180 days a year can add up to major boredom. That is, without the student council. This year, the student council was kept busy planning activities such as Homecoming week, Twirp week, dress-up days, relays, pie eating contests, and more. Why do these 18 students who make up the student council dedicate their time throughout the year? Student Council president Jenny Powelson explained the reasoning behind their actions: "The student council's goals in doing activities is to raise school spirit."

Not only does the student council raise school spirit but they also work to better the school by raising money to buy things the school needs like the stereo system in the new gym. As senior and president, Jenny Powelson, put it, "I'm glad I had the chance to be a part of a group of people who work towards one goal: that's to make school a better place to be."

Chris Porter

CAN WE HAVE SECONDS? Student council member Dan Grollmund, center, serves cider and doughnuts to Brad Good and Chad Sperling, November 24, before school. The free nourishment was a definite spirit booster. Dan Grollmund commented, "We served our own classmates and got to eat what was left."

J. Ortman

S. Thiel