

JUST IN THE NICK OF TIME

Juniors Always Manage To Pull It Off

Whether it's selling magazines, putting together a last minute Homecoming float, or organizing the prom, the juniors always manage to get things done. Even if it means a little extra time and effort, this class will come through.

The juniors got into the spirit of Twirp Week by plastering their wall in the new gym with posters after school. They also pitched in their spare change for the penny competition. And the prom committee worked overtime to prepare for the prom.

"If we all pull together, we can usually get things accomplished," said Jaime Morris.

Getting things done—a phrase that is well known by the class of 1995.
