

Is there time
to think about or make the right turns in a student's life?

making right turns... student life.

Homework... jobs... practice... church... games ... hobbies... prom... graduation. What are these things? Student life. Student life is everything you do. Part of student life is going to school, making it to all of your practices, and getting to games on time. Studying for a big test and practicing music for band. Going to special events like prom and graduation. Making the time to find that perfect prom dress. Student life is ordering announcements, caps, and gowns for graduation.

In all of these activities you juggle, you make turns. Sometimes it is necessary to take time to make sure the right turn has been taken. It can be as simple as turning in the right position to catch a water balloon at the Snake dance, being a good sport about being humiliated on Slave Day, or turning in your homework, done.

Junior Ben Follett commented, "As long as you don't do anything to get in trouble, you're making the right turns." Whether you are making right or wrong turns, everything you do affects student life.

Sara Jean McGillis

J. Morris

WE ARE GODS! Freshmen David Polash and Chris Burgett are good sport about being enslaved on Slave Day. Singing was a talent shared.

S. Bornemnn

MY BRAIN HURTS! Seniors Jaime Morris, Sara McGillis, and Brianna Yelsik think about what special senior items to order for graduation. These three girls have been friends since kindergarten.

COME TO ME! Senior Joe Beracy concentrates on catching a water balloon at the Snake dance. Relay races were other activities that took place.