

EXCELLENT, EXCELLENT, EXCELLENT! NHS member Mike Strnad presents senior scholars Robert Czeiszperger, Shawna Bornemann, Jason Denniston, and Elliott Lowe with their medals for achieving a 3.5 GPA for the school year, highest award given at the Scholastic Banquet.

All year long students work hard to get good grades and to be on the honor roll. When springtime rolls around, they are rewarded by being invited to the academic banquet or by hearing their name called for special recognition at the awards assembly. It is especially satisfying if you've worked hard to get an award or an invitation to the Scholastic Banquet.

"Working hard really pays off when everyone realizes how well and hard you did work," commented Miranda Coon.

Students who also worked really hard to get their grades up were rewarded by going to see a Lansing Lugnuts baseball game.

"I know that if I work hard I will be better prepared for my future," said junior Jenny Mc Gillis.

Shawna Bornemann

hard work, determination

pay off

Springtime events bring recognition to scholars.