

Busy!

Students take on "extras"

Organizations sometimes push people over the edge! Students who are involved in one organization are usually involved in other activities, too. All these commitments push people for time and force them to work extra hard.

"Being involved in everything is rewarding and it keeps me busy.

But a lot of the time I need more hours in a day to complete everything," commented junior Brandie Burgett, who is student council secretary, assistant athletic director, Bears' sports announcer, and a member of National Honor Society, and drama club, as well as serving on the basketball and volleyball teams.

by Shawna Bornemann

T. Polash

STICK 'EM UP! Beth Schulz, Dan Grollmund, and Derek Dawson tape Brian Krueger up on the wall during the last event for homecoming week. The sophomores placed third, overall.

'PLAYING DEAD Mrs. Marcie Fabus and Lacey Crocker cover the bodies chosen to represent the innocent people killed by drunk drivers.

