

Kari Bearden

Matthew Brzak

LuAnn Cermak

Travis Copsey

B.J. Crossley

Scott Czeiszperger

Eric Deming

Kari Deming

Jesse Diffin

Holly Dolloff

Sarah Earick

Michael Erickson

Louis Follett

James Frasier

Linda Gall

What is the difference between sixth and seventh grade? Is it being shoved into lockers and having only four minutes to get to class? Or maybe it's being at the bottom of the totem pole again. "I like the vending machines and study hall," commented Ed Pingle.

On the other hand, other seventh graders look at seventh grade a bit differently. "Looking at the older high school girls in the hallways is fun," stated Louis Follett. Pat Yelsik likes seventh grade because, "We get to play twice as many basketball games this year." These are the pros of seventh grade but as James Polash stated, there are also cons. "I get beat up a lot more this year and the eighth hours stink!" exclaimed James.

One similarity remains the same between sixth and seventh grade, however; Ed Pingle stated it best when he said, "The school still has no heat and the lunch still sucks."

by Jason Saylor

J. McGillis

NOT THE DUMPSTERS... Ed Pingle and Shawn Stoneman show Jacob Harris what being in seventh grade is about.

M. Bornemann

SEVENTH GRADE INVASION? . . . No it's just Aaron Schulz, Jacob Harris, Jesse Diffin, and Kevin Peters listening and waiting for the Homecoming relays to start.

J. McGillis