Over the past years, school spirit has been associated with only the students of our school, but this year a dramatic change has taken place. The staff has gotten involved, more than ever, during our Spirit Week activities. For example, no one will ever forget seeing Mrs. Martinez wiggle across the floor in a sleeping bag during the inchworm, or Mr. Stevens starting a food fight during the pie eating contest. Miss Dawn Landis stated, "It's important that students see teachers participating in activities other than just teaching."

Even though it was the staff's first year to have a team, they did well, taking first place during Homecoming, and fifth place during Twirp Week.

HOW LOW CAN YOU GO?
