

TURNING TO SPRING

"It was really tough playing in the cold weather, plus we had to miss quite a few games and practices because of the rain," commented sophomore David Polash.

The weather played a huge role in the 1996 varsity baseball season. Numerous games and practices were cancelled because Mother Nature couldn't make up her mind.

"We complained all the time about how cold it was," said Elliott Lowe," but it was the only way to keep warm."

The cold wasn't very kind to the Bear sackers, and neither was their schedule. Put cold weather and a hard schedule together and you get a long year.

Junior Kevin Gavenda reflected, "It was really tough losing quite a bit in the first few games, especially in the cold, but we still managed to have fun and stick it out."
