

It's tradition that PUMPS
us up

Walk into the school...everyone is dressed in retro clothing. It looks as though the 60's and 70's are alive again. What's happening? It is Rewind Day of homecoming week.

Homecoming week is a very traditional time of the year. Dress up days, class contests, and float competitions are to be expected. But what is the week all about? Well, junior football player Dan Grollimund summed it up best when he said, "My favorite part of homecoming week is the football game. It's what the whole week is about and leads up to. It's the basis of all the traditions."

What do all of these traditions do for the spirit of the school? "Homecoming week really boosts the spirit of our school, especially with the competition between classes. It really pulls the students in each class together," commented Mrs. Jean Murdock.

Everyone has a different idea of the best traditions of homecoming week. "My favorite dress up day was Rewind Day, because it reminded me of the clothes I saw when I was little and it scared me! My favorite contest was the float building, because it made the classes work together," remarked Mrs. Murdock.

"My favorite dress up day is the Blue and Gold Day, because it gets us pumped up for the game, and it is the most traditional," said Dan.

So, no matter what your favorite tradition, they all serve their purpose. They get students in the spirit for the big game.

Jennifer McGillis