

Kick back, relax and have a blast

A free day is the third best thing that could happen during the school year. Winter and spring vacations are first, snow days come second, and free days come third. There's nothing better than a free day every once in a while to kick back, relax, and take the pressures of school off students.

During a free day, students usually play cards or other games, listen to music, go to the vending machines, or just sit around and talk.

"I usually play cards or sleep," said senior Peggy Wirt.

Free days aren't just handed to students. Usually, something must be achieved in order to earn one. Mrs. Martinez gives her classes a free day at the end of every six week marking period; that is, only if the class has behaved during that six weeks. But some teachers do just give them for the heck of it, like Mrs. Luneack.

"Mrs. Luneack

gives the most free days," said senior Kristie Spencer. "It's a known fact."

Then, of course, you have those teachers who never give free days, such as Mr. Andersen or Mr. Wayer.

"Mr. Andersen just gives easy work," said sophomore Dustin Crumbaugh, "and he considers that a free day."
