

What a team!

Teamwork, hard work, and luck: three essential parts to any team. This year's varsity girls' basketball team possessed these three; that helped them make their run all the way to the state championship.

First of all, the team had seven seniors, four of which were returning starters. This brought experience and patience to the table, two very important assets. "I think the fact that we've had so much big game experience helped us make good decisions that led to some very big wins," said senior Stacie Fabus.

Another huge part of the team's very impressive season was coaching. Senior Amy Strouse stated, "Mr. Wayer was, and is, the best coach I've ever had for any sport."

Perhaps the most overlooked, yet one of the most important parts of the team, was the fact that they were so fundamentally sound. For example, senior All-State point guard Kristen Fabus shot 78% from the charity stripe. "It was a great honor being an All-Stater and winning the area free throw percentage," commented senior Kristen Fabus.

Put all the things into one team and you have the Lady Bears of Ashley, state runners-up.
