

TeAChERs

give out too much homework

"Why do we have to do this?"

"We don't need anymore homework!"

"None of the other teachers give us this much stuff to do!" These are just some of the many complaints heard from students around the school, poor children forced to do work by their slave driving teachers.

There is an excessive amount of worksheets and definitions given to students; at least that's what the majority of students would say. "The funniest complaint I've ever heard was 'I have better things to do, I could be at a party.'" stated Ms. Dawn Landis. Although the teachers get awfully sick of hearing the lame whines, some students consider themselves to be artists in this regard. "We have to wash our hair, we don't have time to do your homework," Beth Shulz claims as her favorite excuse.

Most teachers really don't think when they give out work; they act like students have nothing better to do.

Unfortunately, so many students have to find extra time in their busy schedules because they're involved in extra-curricular activities. They have to lift weights, go to baseball practice, and then go to drama club practice all after school; in addition, they have homework and tests to study for.

Luckily, students find ways to adjust to the difficulties of everyday life; Kristin Bornemann tells of her ways to cope with the heavy work load. "Games always take a lot of time where I could be doing homework and fill it. So I just get the homework assigned on those days done on practice days."

Actually, the teachers have to grade all the papers they give and figure up six weeks grades, so they put in at least as much time. So let's salute the teachers for their efforts to make better people out of all their students; without them, you would be dumb. (However, it's still fun to whine about it. So why not indulge and let them know what you think?)

Kevin Fabus

As I was saying...

*Always remember, what goes around, comes around...

*Never pick on the little guys, they pack a big punch...

*Everybody knows everybody around here, I like that about Ashley...

*I like to play football, baseball, and basketball, they're great sports...

James J. Polach

K. Mepham

JAMES'S PET PEEVES

- *People who give up really easy.
- *Receiving wedgies.

