

UN GOVERNED

Student council... the group that brings you the social calendar for the year. Their first task is Homecoming. Student council president Daniel Grollimund had this to say about some of the headaches of producing Homecoming: "It was difficult. I had to set up the entire parade and make sure everything that happened at half-time was going as planned."

Once Homecoming is over, the council members begin to get ready for the next big event, Twirp Week! Another week of costumes, relays, competition, and of course, the Snowball. Snowball queen, Lisa Maier remembers her big night: "I was really happy to win, but I was even happier that my brother was able to be there."

"I was really happy to win, but I was even happier that my brother was able to be there."

Lisa Maier

After Twirp Week, the pace slows. By May, a new bunch of officer hopefuls are busy getting petitions signed, making posters, and nervously writing campaign speeches.

When you think about it, school would consist of nothing but endless days of boring lectures and homework if it weren't for student council.

Jessica McNamara

YOUNG ROYALTY Chelsie Long and Jerad Wallen happily represent the seventh graders for Snowball.

Student Council gets busy on social calendar

T. Turner

FULLA SMILES Smiling from ear to ear, Nate Morgan and Lisa Maier gladly accept the prize of Snowball king and queen.

B. Franks

STUDENT COUNCIL First row: Eric Kirkey, Chelsie Long, Mindy Wallen, Kim Bush, Steve Lowell. Second row: Mrs. Suzanne Luneack, James Easlick, Dan Grollimund, Jesse Diffin, Tony Miller, Matt Schueller.