

Choices

Choices can influence your life greatly.

Do you think of yourself as smart, dramatic, or inventive? Are you the type of person who likes to participate in anything that you can find? Well, Ashley High has something for every one!

First of all, there's National Honor Society for those of you who are real brains and have that elusive quality called character. "NHSers have it all—brains, personality, and wit," commented advisor, Mrs. Suzanne Luneack.

Next, there's Drama Club for those who find themselves to be a little dramatic. Director, Mrs. Marilyn Gearhart said, "The type of person I look for to be in Drama Club has to be dedicated, enthusiastic, and uninhibited. You cannot be afraid to let yourself go. You also can't worry about what other people think of you."

For the inventive side of you, there's Student Council. You have the chance to put your creativity to use when planning school activities. "It takes a lot of creativity to come up with ideas that students will participate in. It can't be too lame or they won't do it," said Student Council co-president, Mindy Wallen.

If you're in the market for a little fun, dedicate some time to one or all of these exciting organizations.

Kristin Mepham

T. Kral

T. Kral

I KNOW! Katrina Payne, Valerie Miller, and Amy Dawson wait patiently for the next question. These three are varsity quiz team members.

WHAT A PARTY! James Easlick, John Polash, Bruce Andersen, Eric Kirkey, and Thomas Papczak play stack the cans at the Christmas party that the Student Council sponsored.

K. Mepham

KING SHAW... Joe Shaw lands the role as a king in the school play, "A Present for the Prince."