

RAINBOW WARRIORS!

WE PLAY TOGETHER Kristen Bornemann leads her team to the floor as the team follows to the starting lineup. Kristen walks out as her name is called. She is one of the team starters.

Volleyball has become a very intense sport this year. The girls had a lot of spirit and won the league tournament, but lost the title to become league champions.

At the beginning of the season they began calling themselves the Rainbow Warriors, to bring the heat of spirit up and it worked. Terri Kral offered a word to define the team: "Determination;" they were determined to try their hardest in every way.

Miranda Coon felt that the game they played the hardest in was with Shepherd.

"We beat Shepherd twice this year and it was important to us because we've never beat them. We put everything we had into kicking their butts."

"The team's only regret was losing the league title; it was a low point and a surprise," added Coach Moore.

Dianne Surdock believes that she played her hardest at the league tournament. "I went in there knowing that in order to become champs, we had to win every game. I tried to play my hardest to help our team be successful in doing that and we did. Most of the games were real close. That made me even more nervous, but I kept my composure to do whatever I had to do."

Carry Felton believes she contributed to her team because, "I'm there when no one else will go for it."

The easiest opponents were Mt. Pleasant Baptist Academy and Valley Christian Academy. Kristin Bornemann remarked,

"They were so easy to play. No matter where the ball went, they couldn't hit it; we were just too quick for them."

Coach Moore enjoyed this season very much. "I had a very talented team. Even though we didn't meet a couple of our goals, we played some excellent and exciting volleyball."

Jessica McMann

K. Mepham

K. Mepham

SMACK Kristen Bornemann hits the ball while Lisa Strnad jumps up to block one of her four blocks this year. Amy Cermak stands back and waits to help out.