

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY Front row: Val Miller, Suzanne Luneack, advisor Back row: Patrick Yelsik, Kevin Fabus, Jessie Diffin. Missing K. Borneman M. Coon.

Geskus Photography

IT'S BREAK TIME Patrick Yelsik takes five from wrapping presents for the adopted NHS family.

S. Luneack

S. Luneack

HOW SWEET Santa, Kevin Fabus, and his lady, Mrs. Claus (Miranda Coon) snuggle before the long night of delivering presents to the NHS adopted family.

When you get a group of responsible, caring, reliable students together, who each have a GPA of at least 3.25, you have the National Honor Society. One of the service functions of the National Honor Society is to put on programs and functions for the school and community.

Mrs. Suzanne Luneack, advisor, commented, "Their favorite function to participate in is the Christmas project. What they do is pick a family in need and get a wish list, then we go shopping for the day." Val Miller exclaimed, "It makes us feel good and warm and cozy inside because we helped out a family in need. My favorite part of the program is the feeling I get for helping out a family. It gives me a good sense that I did something right. My favorite part is wrapping. It's a lot of fun. Shopping for the gifts is hard because it's always hard to shop for someone you don't know very well."

National Honor Society participated in a Bow-lathon and collected pledges to earn enough money to buy the family's presents and they even bought groceries for Christmas dinner. People pledged so much for each pin or a flat rate. Their goal was to raise 50 dollars apiece, more if possible.

It takes a special kind of personality to put on a program like this and you find it in the National Honor Society students.

Jessica McMann