WE LOOK GOOD! Jason Stoneman and Justin Lindquist stand in front of their English 9 class to present their project from Romeo and Juliet. Justin played Romeo, who was trying to get to heaven.

English is a subject that involves a lot of reading and writing. It also involves many projects where the students have to work in groups or by themselves. Many of the freshmen worked on projects involving Shakespeare. Some made movies, newspapers, model theaters, or posters.

Mrs. Suzanne Baker commented, "It's always fun for me to see what their minds come up with. Some of them are pretty clever and innovative. It gives kids who enjoy it a chance to do 'hands-on' stuff."
