

S. Larsen

WORD FOR WORD

Amy Walter's white rose symbolizes the end of a long journey. Graduation is something you wait your whole life for, then seems like that you were outside at recess. The seniors looked forward to this day all year and when it was finally here they wished it weren't. Rachel Billings stated, "I couldn't believe that it was finally here." Now it has gone and life awaits the seniors.

C. Prikasky

IT'S OVER! Together one last time for a picture at Swingout are the seniors of 2001. Seniors often add a bizarre or whimsical touch (such as hats) on Swingout night, the first night they appear in public in their caps and gowns.

LISTEN UP Rounding up the rest of the class is Jesse Dif-fin. Jesse gets the class lined up before they walk out to graduation.

C. Prikasky