

Smarties

This year's Senior class isn't the biggest class to ever come out of Ashley, but they make up for it in many ways.

Out of the total 25 people in the class 20 made the honor roll at the end of the first semester, making this year's seniors regarded highly by the staff. Mrs. Suzanne Baker stated, "They are a very bright and energetic bunch, and you can always count on them for a good time." Steve Larsen, class sponsor, had these words to offer, "The senior class are very hard workers, and have a great deal of pride in their school."

Not only have the seniors had this attitude in the classroom, but they also carried it over to the ballfield and out onto the court. The senior boys made up over half of the football team this season, and the basketball team consisted of seven seniors and three juniors. The girls have also made large contributions to the softball team.

With all the seniors competing for spots on the team, you might expect to have some conflict, but that just didn't happen. "We choose to watch out for each others' backs rather than stab them in it," commented Aaron Schulz. "I am not saying we don't ever have any problems, but we normally find a way to get it resolved."

Another distinctive trait of the senior class is their kindness. Carson city transfer student, Troy Adams, said, "The seniors were some of the first people to welcome me here to Ashley and made me realize that I was really going to like it here. I always had a lot of fun with them and will miss them a lot."

As what has been said above illustrates, the senior class has a good work ethic, are a very fun group, and take a great deal of pride in their school.

Even though the seniors will be moving on after this year, they will surely not forget the great times spent behind these walls at Ashley and will also be remembered by everyone who has been influenced by them for the way they cared for the students, staff, and the school for the past thirteen years.

By Jesse Diffin

J. Shaw

CHAH, BABY Front row: Craig Densmore Back row: Jesse Diffin, James Polash, Aaron Grollmund, Tim Bates,

and Rob Beam pose in the hall for a picture set up by their owners during Spirit Week. Rob stated, "Slave Day was cool!"

Seniors