Drinking Alcohol = Consequences

As the tenth graders become young adults, they take on new responsibilities and start to take charge of their own lives. Some of them receive their license, have their own car, and can drive legally without getting in trouble. But nowadays most accidents are caused by young teens drinking and driving. That's why Trooper Chris Olsen was elected to talk to the sophomore class. He went over all the consequences that could be the result of bad decision making.

"I felt that Trooper Olsen made the consequences of drinking and driving very clear. I feel that too many young people don't realize what kind of trouble that can cause. I wish I would have had more time so I could thank him. I don't want to see my classmates get hurt," stated Sarah Johnston.

Not only did he talk to the students about drinking and driving, but he also brought in some fatal vision goggles to show them how it felt to be drunk. After testing the goggles, most of the sophomore class chose to be designated drivers.

"The things Trooper Olsen said made a lot of sense, helping me decide to be a designated driver, instead of being the one who causes the heartache and pain of many others, leaving them a scar," confessed Annette Cermak.

STOP!
DID YOU KNOW!

◆ That Dustin Schueller is becoming a man?

"I went to the shoe store with my mom one time, I had to get some shoes because mine were too small, so we went in. I picked out some neat shoes that were black, of course, But Mom says out loud in the store, 'Aww, my little boy is becoming a man.' That was the most embarrassing thing that ever happened to me."

◆ That Tommy Harrell likes to surprise his guests?

"I walked out of the bathroom with only a towel on and the house was full of people and my towel fell off."

◆ That Ryan Peck and roller coasters don't agree?

"I think the most embarrassing thing that happened to me that I can remember is when I went to Cedar Point for the first time. It was really hot out and I drank too much pop before going on a roller coaster. It was my first time riding one and I got really sick and as soon as I got off I puked all over people in the line getting off it. It was more watery and liquidy since it was mostly pop, and I felt really terrible for the rest of the day. Also, the people in front of me were really upset."
