WE ARE HERE TODAY... Freshman Samantha Phillips bids farewell to the deceased during the mock funeral that SADD demonstrated.

Sometimes, being in a club can be a lot of fun. Although, occasionally, when organizations like SADD try to get points across, the topics can turn serious. Examples were the mock funeral that they held this year and the student council speeches and elections. "It was tons of fun running for secretary, although I was a little nervous being up in front of all those people," stated freshman Amanda Lange. "I was lucky, though, that I didn't have to run against anybody," she added. Her campaign manager was Angela Strouse.

"I had a lot of fun in SADD this year, especially since I was the Grim Reaper. I got to go around and hand people toe tags, telling them that they had died and they had to be silent for the rest of the day," stated junior Cassie Richmond. All of the students with the toe tags had to lie on the gym floor during the SADD assembly to show how many people die in drunk driving accidents every day.

There were, however, lots of fun times too. For example, there was the Halloween Dance put on by SADD that a lot of students enjoyed. Then, there was the NHS Christmas, where senior Lucas Studt dressed up as Santa and gave out presents to children who really need them.

Being in organizations like SADD, NHS, and the student council can be a lot of fun, with heartwarming times and lots of memories.
