

The right part...The right kids...

Role Identity

EDWARD SCISSOR-HANDS? Nope, that's just Pa Halloweone (Joe Shaw) and Sarah Jo Halloweone (Stacy Densmore) snipping away at Pepper's (Daniel Bates) hair. "I was nervous when Joe was cutting Danny's hair because he was cutting so close to his real hair," commented Densmore.

If you enjoy laughing and having a good time, then you'd enjoy the play the Drama Club put on called Headin' For A Weddin'.

Mrs. Marilyn Gearhart, the Drama Club advisor, commented about the play, "The kids put in a lot of time and effort towards the play and I thought the play was just hilarious. I love slapstick humor. This play was definitely one of the better plays that we've done."

The play consisted of very talented students who played challenging parts. For instance, Samantha Phillips, a.k.a. Bertha, played a funny role which required her to be very obnoxious. "I enjoyed acting out the part of Bertha because I liked the personality. The only bad part about playing Bertha was having a big butt," stated Phillips.

Another drama club student thought he identified with his character. Joe Shaw commented, "I thought I fit the part of Pa Halloweone because in the play when I woke up, the first thing I would say is, "Is it time to eat yet?"

In conclusion, the students worked very hard on this play and from the comments, it sounds like it was a hit.

Gina Mepham

A. Turner

A. Turner

WHAT COULD THIS BE?
Katie "Gracie May" looks

for little critters (lice?) trying to burrow down for winter.