

LEADERS

CHEW BEFORE SWALLOWING It takes all he has to swallow the last bite of cream pie and win first place for the juniors, but William Pearson manages to do so. "I knew I could do it, but I had a hard time swallowing the last bite," commented William, "even though I knew I had to in order to win first place."

How long does it take to become a leader, not a follower? According to the juniors, it takes one time of working together to jump from the back of the line to the front.

"It took losing the activities during spirit week before we realized that we needed to work as a team," commented William Pearson. "That's when we stepped up and took first place in a pie eating contest and the wall taping."

Juniors are leaders, both on the field and court.

"Annette Cermak was bumped up to varsity basketball her tenth grade year," stated Ron Boucher. "That's what I call determination and leadership."

What if...

You suddenly found the courage to do one thing you have always been afraid of doing, what would you want it to be and why?

"Joining the armed services because my great grandfather, grandfather, and father fought in wars and survived, so I feel it's my turn to serve and complete my 'tour of duty' as they call it," stated Jeremy Owen.

"I would ask the new redhead kid Tyler if he wanted to do something. I think he's really nice and I find his hair very attractive," commented Tisha Stone-man.
