

Tiffany Russell

Tyler Denmore

Joshua Hunt

Katie Beracy

Nuts & Bolts?

Class of 2007!

The term best to describe the class of 2007 is "nuts and bolts".

If someone were around when class was ready to begin, they would see them bolt into the classrooms as the bell rings in hopes of not receiving a tardy. Shana Pupava admitted, "I was really scared when I started seventh grade that I wouldn't make it to class on time, but it's not all that bad now." You would see them bolt to the lunch room at 11:50, eager to escape from the classroom. The seventh graders go nutty over all their new homework and go absolutely nuts over that high school hottie.

This year was a first for a lot of new and exciting things such as dances, pep assemblies, and sports. "My favorite thing about seventh grade is the pep assemblies. Overall, it has been really fun," Randy Kirkpatrick said.

Vicki Gilbert

K. Beck

DEEPLY INVOLVED...
The seventh graders look on as they watch a play about the civil rights activist, Rosa Parks.