Homecoming Night

As the sound of the national anthem, played by the Ashley Marching Band, swept over the field, so did the excitement and anticipation of the traditional half-time show.

As the game progressed closer to half-time, the crowd's anticipation for who would be King and Queen grew.

The buzzer sounded to mark the beginning of the half-time ceremony. The sound of retired English teacher Suzanne Baker's voice came over the loudspeaker, and before you knew it, the 2002-2003 Homecoming King and Queen were announced. J.J. Cooley and Annette Cermak were given the honor of representing the school.

"It is an honor and a dream to be crowned tonight. I now know that dreams do come true, especially when they are with my boyfriend, J.J.," said Annette.

The following night at the dance dreams came true for not only the King and Queen, but for every other couple that stepped onto the dance floor that night.
