

ERIN

KOPPLEBERGER

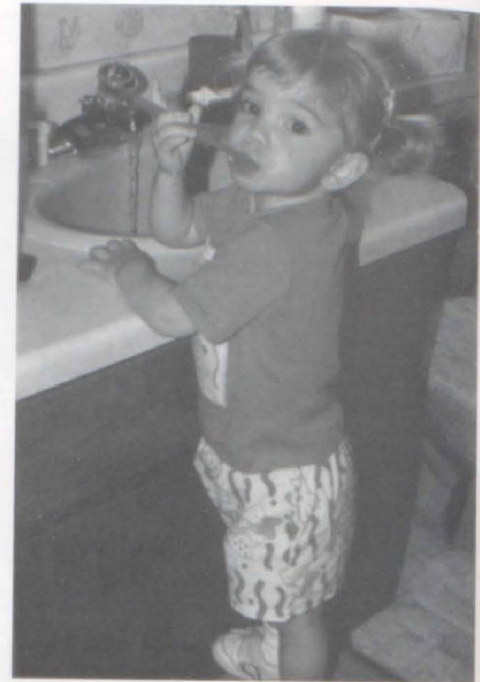

Erin,

Wow! It's hard to believe that you're all grown up now and graduating from high school. It seems like just yesterday that you were climbing on the bus and heading off to Kindergarten.

We're very proud of the young lady you've become. We wish the best for you as you go off to college this fall. Continue to set goals, work hard, and keep the faith.

We love you!
Dad, Mom, and Brianna

DREW SHAW

Drew,

We can not believe that it has been 18 years since you were born. And now you are graduating and going to take the world on and make it your own. Thanks for the ride, it's been awesome and believe it or not your Dad and I are ready for the next stage of your life. You have brought so much happiness to so many people and we are very proud of you. Remember that it does take a village to raise a child. Never forget those people that helped you along the way.

I wish all of your grandparents could have been here to see you graduate and to see what a great young man you have turned out to be, but, you still have two Grandmas and a very special Aunt that know this and are very proud of you.

Always know where ever you go and what ever you do, we are always there to support and help you. Hope College is very lucky to be getting you, give them a run for their money and wow them as you have done us for 17 years.

We love you so much,
Dad, Mom, Brandon, and Jazz
